Third Brake Gadget Found Partly Closed

Boston, Jan. 24 (AP)—Discovery of another partly closed angle cock air brake valve on a New Haven train—the third within nine days—was under investigation today.

A New Haven spokesman said an angle cock was found yesterday "not in its proper position" on the second car of the Boston-to-New York "New Yorker." The device controls the air brakes.

Howard Moulton, a public relations man, said the discovery was made during an inspection of cars at Providence, R. I.

At the value on the second car of the train was found "partly closed." He added it was returned to its normal position and the train continued to New York.

The first apparent instance of brake tampering involved the crack Boston-to-Washington "Federal Express" which crashed into Washington Union Station Jan. 15 and injured some 50 persons. That wreck has been blamed on possible tampering with an angle cock.

Think Its Sabotage

The second instance of brake tampering was reported Thursday by U. S. Sen. Charles W. Tobey (R-N.H.), chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee. He said it "begins to look like sabotage."

The railroad confirmed that an air brake valve on the fifth car of the "Colonial Express" was found half turned while the train was standing in New Haven, Conn.

Paul R. Goulett, an assistant vice president, said the valve was adjusted and the Colonial continued on to New York and Washington without further incident.

He said the FBI has been notified of the "odd" incidents, adding that railroad police are continuing their investigation of the Washington crash.

Quill Asks Dewey To Act on Strike

Union Boss Says Nobody in City Government Is Capable

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—Striking bus drivers have rejected a city arbitration plan to end the 24-day walkout on eight private lines and appealed to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to break the deadlocked strike.

Settlement had seemed imminent in the strike of 8,200 drivers and maintenance men, members of the CIO Transport Workers. But at a union mass meeting yesterday, argument developed over interpretation of the arbitration plan's language. And Michael J. Quill, TWU international president, told the cheering throng,

"If it takes weeks or months, by God we will stick at it until we get the language we want."

The legal "language" involves recognition of the union's "right" to a 40-hour work week with no cut in take-home pay, the major issue in the walkout. The present work week is 44 to 48 hours.

Sends Telegram

Quill then sent a telegram to Dewey which asked the governor to intervene and do "a thorough fact-finding job" and added:

"There is nobody in the city government capable of solving this muddled situation."

In Albany last night, the governor's office said Quill's telegram had been received but there would be no immediate comment on it.

The struck companies contend they cannot meet union demands, which include a 25-cent hourly wage boost, unless they are granted a fare increase or tax concessions or both.

The city administration is opposed to any increase in fares—at present 10 cents on most of

Once Tried to Transport Armored Planes to Foreign Nation, Probers Hear

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—A longshoremen's union official has admitted to state crime probers that his non-union activities included, among other things, an attempt to ship 50 armored airplanes to the Dominican Republic.

The official, Thomas (Teddy) Gleason, also acknowledged yesterday before the New York State Crime Commission that:

He tried to help acquaintances on bananas and sulphur import deals.

He held a "piece" of several prize fighters.

He had an interest in a New Jersey hotel.

But he refused to confirm a crime commission statement that he had received in five years—1947 to 1951—more than $81,000 in salary and expenses, or better than $16,000 a year average, from the three AFL International Longshoremen Association (ILA) locals of which he is an official.

Gleason's testimony came just before the crime commission adjourned until Monday its public inquiry into waterfront racketeers which bleed the seven-billion-dollar shipping industry here of an estimated 350 millions annually.

The banana, sulphur and airplane deals first came up in testimony by Cornelius (Connie) Noonan, another ILA local official.

Noonan refused to answer questions about them after comment from Theodore Kiendl said:

Refers to Deals

"We contend that they (exhibits in evidence) clearly show that this witness (Noonan), Gleason and others engaged in trying to procure armored airplanes for the Dominican Republic in 1952."

Kiendl said the planes were to be procured in this country and in Europe. He said the sulphur deal involved Ecuador. He also referred to deals involving bananas and fish imports but did not elaborate. It was indicated that the airplane deal was not carried out, but the status of two other affairs was not made clear.

When Gleason took the witness stand, Kiendl first asked him if he engaged in other activities "besides the ILA."

"No, sir," said Gleason.

Then Kiendl mentioned tapped telephone calls which he said planned, Scott revealed.

Returning this week from New York city, Scott reported he was "most pleased" with the quality and wide variety of merchandise and styles being offered by the New York market in the popular price range.

He added that he was involved in the airplane deal but "to my knowledge Noonan was not."

87 Are Convicted Of Not Fighting

Mostly Puerto Ricans Make Up 65th Regiment That Had Order Trouble

Seoul, Jan. 24 (AP)—The army today said 87 men and one officer of the 65th regiment have been convicted of refusing to go into action last October against the Communists. Puerto Rican soldiers make up the bulk of the 65th regiment. It has some troops from the continental U. S.

Four other men were acquitted in general court martial, said Maj. Walton B. McMullen, U. S. Third Division Public Information Officer.

The cases involved men who either left a battle scene without orders or refused to advance.

The trial of a 93rd soldier is pending. Names of the accused and convicted were not disclosed. The sentence and trial records will be reviewed by the judge advocate general section in Washington, D. C.

McMullen said the charges grew out of an action in which two companies were ordered to counterrack a Chinese position. After the companies reached their objective, a number of men withdrew without orders.

McMullen said the trial records showed some officers and men who remained in position were killed or wounded because the accused (Continued on Page 10, Col. 6)

Two New Aces Crowned in Korea

Seoul, Jan. 24 (AP)—Allied Sabre jets destroyed at least four Communist MiG-15 jets high over northwest Korea today, as two new jet aces were crowned and a third pilot took over top standings in the MiG killing race.

The air force reported one other MiG was probably destroyed and at least two others damaged.

Capt. Cecil G. Foster of San Antonio, Tex., bagged his eighth and ninth MiGs today to take over the top spot for flyers still active in Korea.

Capt. Dolph D. Overton, III, Andrews, S. C., riding the hottest streak in jet fighting history, bagged his fifth in four days to become Korea's 24th jet ace.

Lt. Harold E. Fisher, Jr., Swea City, Iowa, picked off a MiG for his fifth kill. He is the 25th jet ace of the war.

The probable kill was credited to Col. James J. Johnson, of Phoenix, Ariz.

The new kills brought the allied total to 19 in the last five days.

Saugerties Student Winner Of Legion Speech Contest

John La Houd, a student at Saugerties High School, advanced to the district finals during the Ulster County American Legion eighth annual oratorical contest Friday night in Saugerties.

Competing against a field of six students, the Saugerties youth was judged winner of the contest for his talk on Communism in the Fifth Amendment.

The district finals are scheduled to be held Saturday, Feb. 14, at Kingston High School. Other counties of the district competing in the finale will be winners from Albany, Schoharie, Sullivan, St. Ursula's and Arthur J. Scanlon, Wallkill.

Principal John C. Miller of Highland High School was the chairman.

Judge of the contest were Judge John B. Sterley of Kingston, Louis G. Bruhn, former district attorney of Ulster county; Dr. Charles Baker, professor of English; Dr. Jack Cotton, professor of speech and Dr. Roland G. Will, professor of social studies, all from New Paltz State Teachers College.

New Commander of 8th Army in Korea Gives Views to Eisenhower

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, Jan. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower called in the new commander of the Eighth Army in Korea today for a conference likely to deal with the chief executive's plans for trying to end the stalemate war.

Eisenhower, who spent three days in Korea early in December, arranged to meet at the White House (11 AES) with Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chosen yesterday to head the Eighth Army. He succeeds Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who is retiring.

Eisenhower promised during his campaign for the presidency that, if elected, he would go to Korea in an effort to find a way to bring the war to an honorable end.

After his pre-inaugural inspection of the battle zone last month, he said no miracles should be expected. But he expressed confidence that a way could be found to improve the situation in Korea.

Since then Eisenhower has had nothing to say about his intentions but he reportedly has developed a plan of action.

Knows Plans

Taylor, 51, has been deputy chief of staff for operations and administration Washington during most of the Korean war. He plans to leave here Monday for Tokyo, where he will be briefed by Gen. Mark Clark, Far Eastern Commander in chief, before taking over Van Fleet's post.

From a discussion of the hot war in Korea Eisenhower apparently planned to turn today to talk of American psychological strategy in the cold war elsewhere.

Another conference booked at the White House (noon) was with William H. Jackson, a New York investment banker who lives in Princeton, N. J., and C. D. Jackson of New York, editor-on-leave of Fortune Magazine.

To Head Commission

An authoritative source said earlier this month that William Jackson had been asked by Eisenhower to head a planning commission to review U. S. plans and actions against communism.

C. D. Jackson, who served as an Eisenhower speech-writer aide during the campaign, reportedly will take part in the study.

Motorists Urged To Obtain Plates Before Deadline

1953 Licenses Must Be Shown by Feb. 2; Waiting Lines Are Prospect

One more week remains for motorists to secure their registration and plates for 1953. New 1953 plates must be displayed Monday, Feb. 2. Old plates expire on the last day of January but since Feb. 1, falls on a Sunday the additional day of grace is permitted.

Thus far Ulster county residents have been slow in securing new licenses and County Clerk Harry Sutton and Deputy County Clerk Ralph Post, in charge of the Ulster County Motor Bureau, urge that motorists secure their plates now in order to avoid the last minute rush which will entail long waiting in line.

Mail Applications Okay

Application may be made in person at the office or through the mail. Those renewing their license must be sure their application blank is fully made out and properly signed and that their renewal stub from the 1952 license is attached. Renewals cannot be issued unless blanks are completely made out and signed and the renewal stub is present.

Renewal of passenger car registration also is urged early. Commercial licenses may be withheld until the last minute in anticipation of an extension of time in order to clarify the truck-trailer license rate. It is expected legislation will be approved extending the time for securing truck plates pending a revision of the truck-trailer license fee. It has been indicated by State Motor Bureau officials that this extension may be until March.

Starting on Library

His prime interest now is to get construction started on the $1,500,000 library, cultural and research center on the family farm at nearby Grandview where his brother, J. Vivian Truman; his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman and his nephews still live.

The newsmen were impressed with the nearly 600 acres and with the diligence of the Truman nephews who milk 50 cows, attend 100 hogs and feed 30 steers besides raising wheat and corn.

But the reporters were even more impressed with the ex-President's sister-in-law, whom Truman calls Luella. For while they stood there basking in the aroma of her old-fashioned kitchen, she pulled out, fresh and hot from the oven, one of the finest coffee cakes they had ever tasted.

Best Coffee Cake

And while they and the ex-President munched on the coffee cake, this midwestern housewife, with the ample apron, checked the oven before pulling out four loaves of freshly-baked white bread.

Truman's schedule today apparently to be fitting into a new routine—a drive into Kansas City to answer mail, a walk to a restaurant for lunch, and a trip home to spend the evening with Mrs. Truman.

U. S. Radio Chief In Berlin Visits Friends in Zena

Woodstock, Jan. 23.—A front-line soldier in the cold war of wards being fought in Western Europe, via the voice of radio, was a visitor in this village this week. Charles Lewis, U. S. Chief Radio Branch in Germany, and founder of RIAS (Radio in American Sector), and his wife, were the guests of their friends and associates in the project last year, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Semmler of Zena.

Seven years ago Lewis began to set up, and in the ensuing years developed RIAS into one of the most important radio stations in Europe. The studio building in Berlin is located within a few blocks of the City Hall, and is a short distance from Tempelhof Airport, in West Berlin.

RIAS, according to Lewis, is probably as well equipped and modern a radio station as you'll find anywhere, with a layout of seven studios. The most important musical productions, however, originate from the Jesus Christ Church in Dehlem, which is considered acoustically perfect for these broadcasts.

Anniversary Next Month

RIAS will celebrate its seventh birthday this Feb. 7. It was started in the fall of 1945, a few months after the Americans had gone into Berlin. When the representatives of the United States found that the Russians would not cooperate in the sharing of the control of Radio Berlin, plans were made for a West Berlin station.

"Radio Berlin" was originally the mother station of the German National Radio, and was perhaps the best equipped station in Europe, with a studio building containing concert hall. It also had the main music and recording library of the national network, which meant thousands of musical recordings and up to the moment equipment. The entire set-up was intact when the Russians took it over upon entering the city in 1945. The administrative and studio buildings are in the British sector and the transmitter, a 100 kilowatt job, is in the French sector.

Lewis was sent in as deputy chief of radio for the U. S. Military government, in charge of negotiations on the national and city level in Berlin.

Bit by bit the station was developed until today it has a 100,000 watt transmitter on medium wave, a 20,000 watt transmitter on short wave, a 3,000 watt transmitter on frequency modulation, plus a 20,000 watt standby medium wave transmitter, all of these in Berlin. In addition there is a 40,000 watt medium wave transmitter in Hof, in Northern

The following new members were initiated for Agape: Mrs. Anna S. Cousins, Mrs. Barbara Gibson, Mrs. Eda Herrick, Mrs. Margaret Rubmann and Mrs. Elsie S. Ertz. Three members were initiated for Tiskilwa Rebekah Lodge, Phoenicia, also.

Plans were made to have a fish and chips dinner April 29. After Lodge closed, a covered dish supper was served.

Overall measurements of "The Ferncrest" are 43' x 26'; thus, this modified ranch house has five rooms plus a breezeway or screened porch that connects the house proper with the two car garage. If you want to have your laundry on the first floor rather than in the basement, you can easily have this porch way made into a laundry or utility room.

Under normal conditions, minor cracks—say up to about an eighth of an inch wide—can be packed with a plastic wood that matches the color of your floor. You can also use a mixture of sawdust and shellac, or sawdust and glue, which is preferable for bigger cracks.

Shingles are suggested as the ideal exterior finish because they seem to so perfectly suit the home-like qualities of "The Ferncrest." If you want your home to have an especially neat appearance, paint the shingles white and apply upon blinds and roofing to add that important and distinctive dash of color.

To do you have to stick closely to that building budget? Well, if you do, you can still call "The Ferncrest" your home. The house proper can easily be built as the first stage of construction with the porchway and attached garage added at some later date, when more funds are on hand.

If you have no need for a two-car garage you can save building expenses by having a one-car garage constructed instead. However, make such arrangements with your builder before construction is started. And if you do plan to build in stages be sure to obtain a large enough lot to hold the house and attached garage.

Seven good sized, centrally located closets provide an abundant of storage space in "The Ferncrest." To obtain a really safe off-season storage place you can have the spacious closet opening on the central hall opposite the linen closet lined with cedar. This is not an expensive undertaking and can be performed most easily when the house is constructed.

Only the heating plant will have to be installed in the basement of "The Ferncrest," if you have the laundry on the first floor. Under the living room is the selected location for the heating plant. And should you prefer a basement laundry, place it under the kitchen. Be sure to provide bulkheads for safe and easy access to the yard from the basement.

For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Coating for Masonry

The best bet for covering masonry basement walls where moisture is a factor is either a cement paint or a synthetic oil paint. Neither of these will be damaged by the lime in the masonry as ordinary oil paints will.

Shutters of Two Colors

The exterior color scheme for a Georgia house, prescribed by a noted decorator, specifies deep green shutters for the windows on the first floor and putty-colored shutters for the second story windows.

It has been estimated that only about 7 per cent of human physical variations can be assigned to causes other than inheritance.

U. S. Radio Chief In Berlin Visits Friends in Zena

Woodstock, Jan. 23—A frontline soldier in the cold war of words being fought in Western Europe, via the voice of radio, was a visitor in this village this week. Charles Lewis, U. S. Chief Radio Branch in Germany, and founder of RIAS (Radio in American Sector), and his wife, were the guests of their friends and associates in the project last year, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Semmle of Zena.

Seven years ago Lewis began to set up, and in the ensuing years developed RIAS into one of the most important radio stations in Europe. The studio building in Berlin is located within a few blocks of the City Hall, and is a short distance from Tempelhof Airport, in West Berlin.

RIAS, according to Lewis, is probably as well equipped and modern a radio station as you'll find anywhere, with a layout of seven studios. The most important musical productions, however, originate from the Jesus Christ Church in Dohlem, which is considered acoustically perfect for these broadcasts.

Anniversary Next Month

RIAS will celebrate its seventh birthday this Feb. 7. It was started in the fall of 1945, a few months after the Americans had gone into Berlin. When the representatives of the United States found that the Russians would not cooperate in the sharing of the control of Radio Berlin, plans were made for a West Berlin station.

"Radio Berlin" was originally the mother station of the German National Radio, and was perhaps the best equipped station in Europe, with a studio building containing concert hall. It also had the main music and recording library of the national network, which meant thousands of musical recordings and up to the moment equipment. The entire set-up was intact when the Russians took it over upon entering the city in 1945. The administrative and studio buildings are in the British sector and the transmitter, a 100 kilowatt job, is in the French sector.

Lewis was sent in as deputy chief of radio for the U. S. Military government, in charge of negotiations on the national and city level in Berlin.

Bit by bit the station was developed until today it has a 100,000 watt transmitter on medium wave, a 20,000 watt transmitter on short wave, a 3,000 watt transmitter on frequency modulation, plus a 20,000 watt standby medium wave transmitter, all of these in Berlin. In addition there is a 40,000 watt medium wave transmitter in Hof, in Northern

Semmler, conductor, composer, pianist whom Lewis was visiting, was in Berlin last year assisting the staff of the station as music expert, especially imported for the purpose. "He worked very closely," Lewis stated, "with both the American and German staff for a period of six months, from November 1951, to May 1952. He also conducted a number of performances with the RIAs symphony orchestra, and made a number of tape recordings of his own works for broadcasting purposes."

MUST SPUR EUROPE TO UNITY

President Eisenhower's plan to send his new Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, and Harold Stassen, the new Mutual Security administrator, to Europe is a wise first step. It will aid the new administration in orienting itself quickly to an apparently deteriorating European defense situation.

It ought to offer stout reassurance to our friends in Europe that the Eisenhower team's determination to devote more time to the problems of Asia does not mean it intends to neglect Europe.

We need to understand fully the forces at work in Europe. As military entities the separate nations of that continent have been dead for a long time, and they know it. That is why they have sought safety in unity, and in alliance with America.

The realistic Europeans appreciate, too, that their various countries cannot for much longer go their separate ways economically and politically. In a world where only a concerted strength counts, their fragmented power seems almost like no power at all.

Forward-looking leaders have pushed and driven these nations to make remarkable strides toward an all-embracing continental unity. But in all lands there persists a reluctance to take those last crucial steps, like drawing Western Germany into a European defense community or setting up an effective European political assembly.

Naturally this feeling crystallizes in firm opposition, opposition that cannot steadily be ignored. When the enlightened leaders press too hard, or reach too far forward, they find themselves compelled to ease up or step back.

That is the meaning of German Chancellor Adenauer's sudden call for defense treaty revisions. He has not overnight become a foe of unified defense; he is simply trying to placate internal opposition.

That is also part of the meaning of René Mayer's coming to power in France. Mayer could form a government only by promising treaty changes which would win the backing of 81 followers of nationalist General de Gaulle. He had to drop Robert Schuman, the real French architect of European unity proposals.

Neither in Germany nor France are the present leaders turning against defense unity. They are accommodating themselves to nationalistic protest.

But there is nevertheless grave danger in this new course of events. France, especially, is now committed to seek revision of the European defense treaty. The risk is that in achieving change the interested powers may bog down interminably in the delays of new negotiation.

What Dulles and Stassen must do, with all the delicateness of a masterful diplomacy, is to try to spur Europe through this new difficulty as swiftly as possible. For any serious delay, any loss of resolve to attain unity, will assist only the potential enemy that sits in the Kremlin.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR CAUTION

Motorists are advised by the safety director of the Automobile Club of New York that although snow tires and skid chains can be of great aid when driving on icy or snow-covered roads, there is still no substitute for caution and common sense in preventing winter accidents.

Snow tires and chains are an aid to traction under special conditions, but they cannot substitute for a dry roadway. E. J. Rieger, the safety director, points out that wet, snowy or icy pavements increase braking distances, and a sudden stop can cause a serious skid.

He lists the following safe driving rules for motorists to follow in winter:

Never accelerate or decelerate suddenly on slippery pavements; make turns slowly and smoothly without sudden swerves; when starting on snow or on smooth ice use second gear to gain added traction; avoid sudden stops wherever possible; keep a safe distance behind the car ahead; when applying the brakes use a light pumping action rather than steady pressure on the brake pedal; sig-

NOTHING STANDS STILL

The course of events waits upon neither Presidential elections nor inaugurations. The Russians have again seized the initiative in international relations, stirring up troubles for the United States, almost on the very day that President Eisenhower took office. It is characteristic of their mauldin hatred for their benefactor, the United States, that they are today not only conducting a campaign of violence against us in Europe and Asia, but that they should be teasing the new administration into an immediate declaration of policy.

The Eisenhower administration would have preferred to devote its early months, a period that is often called a honeymoon for a new President, to important domestic problems, to the reorganization and streamlining of the executive branch of the government; to adjustments and amendments to the Taft-Hartley Law; to a study and a correction of the inflationary economy of the Truman administration; to a consideration of the problem of restoration of sound money; to a reanalysis of the immigration law; to a rectification of the relations between the federal government and the states. All these and other matters require considerable legislative action.

These are but a few items on the agenda which need urgent congressional and executive action after 20 years of the New Deal and the Fair Deal. A large number of "emergency" measures, adopted to solve some particular problem in a period of a falling economy, have been continued permanently and have established a creeping socialism that has burdened our people with high and inequitable taxation.

In the present mood of our people, the new administration is expected to approach these problems with a new look and a new answer. Eisenhower's cabinet has been greeted with a marked degree of approval because it introduces a different type of personality into government from what we have witnessed during the past 20 years.

But across it all, like a deepening shadow, is the figure of Stalin, who wants not war but chaos; whose policy it is to keep our government preoccupied with international relations and the preparation for war. The permanent Russian policy is the destruction of the United States without a shooting war.

In every country on earth, Stalin is now conducting a violent anti-American campaign which is producing a fear psychology that undoes the constructive work that has been accomplished since the end of World War II. This fear psychology develops a political response in "neutralism," in the desire of peoples in nearly all countries, including our closest allies, to establish international relations that will not require them to choose between the United States and Soviet Russia. Stalin's immediate objective is to leave us without allies or even friends. His ultimate objective is to destroy the American economy.

Thus far, the Russian has been successful in many phases of this program. Neutralism is growing rapidly. At the recent conference of Socialists in Rangoon, at which many important persons were present from countries which we have aided, opinion was favorable for a "third force."

In these days, ambiguous terms are employed by statesmen to fool the people. What do they mean by a "third force"? It is a phrase that has been milling around for a long time and means, in effect, neutrality between the United States and Soviet Russia. But it means something more than that. It means opposition to both capitalism and Socialism, to the American way of life and to the Russian way of life. Americans have to recognize the "third force" concept as anti-American.

This is the picture that President Eisenhower faces and it is not too seemly. It involves him in the mazes of international relations which keep our taxes high and our money unstable. It gives him no freedom to reconstruct the federal government, which has fallen into the habit of solving all public questions by Socialistic devices that give the impression of great activity on behalf of the people and end in limiting the opportunities of the people by taxing away their earnings.

The immediate task is to take the initiative away from Stalin. He gained it at Teheran in 1943 and has held it since then. Neither Roosevelt nor Truman nor their secretaries of state found any means to wrest the initiative from the Russian. If Eisenhower and Dulles can do that, they will have strengthened this country beyond anything else they could do.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ARTHRITIS PROBLEM IN INDUSTRY

Most of us as we come in contact with the blind individuals feel a real wave of sympathy for them because we think of what they are missing in their beautiful world.

However, there are other less spectacular ailments which are so common and the patient is able to get around, see and hear perfectly, but in which the patient is in pain much of the time and is unable to do his daily work. I refer particularly to the individual suffering with arthritis, the commonest form of which is rheumatoid arthritis.

In rheumatoid arthritis the disease attacks the joints and the surroundings of the joints—cartilages, ends of joints, ligaments and muscle—causing inflammation of the parts with a loss of tissue and, in some cases, perhaps an increase in the tissue.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. J. M. Beare, Montreal, in discussing the problem of arthritis in industry, states that rheumatoid arthritis, "the nefarious crippler chooses 80 per cent of its visitations at the time of onset between the ages of 20 and 50, most productive years of life."

It is a nightmare to all industrial physicians and to general practitioners everywhere. Fortunately, for employees, it is now generally accepted that trauma (injuries) is one cause of arthritis as often a simple injury to a joint will be the starting point of arthritis. This is particularly true of the knee joint where arthritis is hastened by over-weight, overuse, and the continued presence of loose bodies (cartilages). Similar ailments in the shoulder and elbow are often found in professional baseball players.

Weight by itself normally affects the compressible parts of a joint such as the knee to the point where the body is balanced on one leg, the pressure being equal to 12 times the blood pressure. We can readily understand that the joint and its surroundings will suffer a lot of wear and tear during a lifetime. Certain occupations such as policeman and soldier bring on arthritis sooner.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. P. S. Hench and C. M. Darnall, state rheumatoid arthritis forms about 25 per cent (more than three in every ten) of the arthritis cases at the Mayo Clinic. They state further that injury, if not a direct cause, is a "starting point" or precipitating cause of arthritis, lowering the natural resistance of the affected joint or tissues.

When the joint is affected, emotional disturbances, such as anxiety about being able to continue work, prolongs the symptoms.

Sufferers from chronic rheumatism and arthritis will receive many helpful suggestions as to diet, heat, massage, etc., in Dr. Barton's booklet "Chronic Rheumatism and Arthritis." The Shouts Heard 'Round the WorldNEW ADMINISTRATION*Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — President Dwight D. Eisenhower is getting more unsolicited advice on how to run the country than any U. S. chief executive ever got before. Everybody — except perhaps Ike himself — thinks he knows just exactly what ought to be done.

This indicates that lobbying in the coming administration may be particularly heavy. It has dropped off considerably in the last six months. The new congressional report on registered lobbyists' activities is thinner than usual, with fewer than 700 entries.

The reason is simple. Nobody can get anything out of a dead duck. But here is a fat new goose to be hung on the rack. Some people seem to think the picking is going to be good.

To President Eisenhower this presents a special handicap. He can't satisfy everybody. Anyone whose advice he doesn't follow on Korea, Stalin, taxes, foreign trade or foreign aid, farm or power policy, price controls, labor legislation or the gold standard is going to feel down.

Everybody expects so much. That adds to the trouble.

"For the first time in two decades," says the First National of Boston News Letter, "American business will enjoy a favorable political climate under the incoming administration in Washington."

Donald F. Carpenter of the duPont company adds a warning to this which may or may not be heeded. "It is now time for us to show our statesmanship," he says, speaking of the new opportunity for American business executives. "We must not change from the hunted animal to the devouring beast. Rather, we must emerge from behind the tree confident that we will not be fired on by the first government agency that spots us. We must quietly, sincerely and energetically carry out our duties like the true domesticated animal—the beast of burden if you like, but the servant of our country."

Business Leaders Don't Agree

The important point here is that there are divergent views among business leaders on what ought to be done. Take the favorite old Republican issue of the economic controls and the future of the Taft-Hartley law.

The pressure comes from abroad. While Winston Churchill's visit with General Eisenhower was plugged as a meeting between old friends, the British prime minister's New York press conference was as shrewd a bit of British propaganda as has ever been planted in America. The French premier would like to come to America. There will be others in a parade of celebrities reminiscent of war times.

The success of Eisenhower's administration may be the degree that he can steer his own ship of all U. S. tariff concessions negotiated in trade agreements with other countries are subject to withdrawal or modification. . .

Three of the most powerful organizations in the U. S.—the American Bar Association, the American Medical Association and the National Association of Manufacturers—are now ready to give their support to a proposed constitutional amendment limiting tax rates to maximum of 25 per cent of income.

Edward A. Rumley's Committee for Constitutional Government, which has been pushing this idea for 14 years, says success is within reach this year. Adoption of this amendment might be the most serious handicap that could be given the Eisenhower administration in its drive to balance the budget. Yet there are plenty of pressure groups that are ready to ram a tax limitation law down Eisenhower's throat.

Advice Comes From Within

The effort to influence Ike comes not only from outside, private groups, but from within his own administration. Senate Majority Leader Robert A. Taft's remark about putting the country back on the road it abandoned 20 years ago has been widely quoted.

House Speaker Joseph A. Martin's first speech called for restoring to Congress its full prestige. Coupled with Senator Taft's remark, this has been taken as an indication that the congressional leaders will set the policies for the new administration.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has been building up this belief. Its Washington report says the national chamber has arranged more than 22 meetings between businessmen and groups of new congressmen. At these meetings the lawmakers were impressed with the business views on such topics as "taxes, budget balancing, and the like."

He (South Korean President Syngman Rhee) would not discuss Point Four help—technical aid. He wanted the cash money and was sore because he hasn't got as much as he wanted.

MUST SPUR EUROPE TO UNITY

President Eisenhower's plan to send his new Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, and Harold Stassen, the new Mutual Security administrator, to Europe is a wise first step. It will aid the new administration in orienting itself quickly to an apparently deteriorating European defense situation.

It ought to offer stout reassurance to our friends in Europe that the Eisenhower team's determination to devote more time to the problems of Asia does not mean it intends to neglect Europe.

We need to understand fully the forces at work in Europe. As military entities the separate nations of that continent have been dead for a long time, and they know it. That is why they have sought safety in unity, and in alliance with America.

The realistic Europeans appreciate, too, that their various countries cannot for much longer go their separate ways economically and politically. In a world where only a concerted strength counts, their fragmented power seems almost like no power at all.

Forward-looking leaders have pushed and driven these nations to make remarkable strides toward an all-embracing continental unity. But in all lands there persists a reluctance to take those last crucial steps, like drawing Western Germany into a European defense community or setting up an effective European political assembly.

Naturally this feeling crystallizes in firm opposition, opposition that cannot steadily be ignored. When the enlightened leaders press too hard, or reach too far forward, they find themselves compelled to ease up or step back.

That is the meaning of German Chancellor Adenauer's sudden call for defense treaty revisions. He has not overnight become a foe of unified defense; he is simply trying to placate internal opposition.

That is also part of the meaning of Rene Mayer's coming to power in France. Mayer could form a government only by promising treaty changes which would win the backing of 81 followers of nationalist General de Gaulle. He had to drop Robert Schuman, the real French architect of European unity proposals.

Neither in Germany nor France are the present leaders turning against defense unity. They are accommodating themselves to nationalistic protest.

But there is nevertheless grave danger in this new course of events. France, especially, is now committed to seek revision of the European defense treaty. The risk is that in achieving change the interested powers may bog down interminably in the delays of new negotiation.

What Dulles and Stassen must do, with all the delicateness of a masterful diplomacy, is to try to spur Europe through this new difficulty as swiftly as possible. For any serious delay, any loss of resolve to attain unity, will assist only the potential enemy that sits in the Kremlin.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR CAUTION

Motorists are advised by the safety director of the Automobile Club of New York that although snow tires and skid chains can be of great aid when driving on icy or snow-covered roads, there is still no substitute for caution and common sense in preventing winter accidents.

Snow tires and chains are an aid to traction under special conditions, but they cannot substitute for a dry roadway. E. J. Rieger, the safety director, points out that wet, snowy or icy pavements increase braking distances, and a sudden stop can cause a serious skid.

He lists the following safe driving rules for motorists to follow in winter:

Never accelerate or decelerate suddenly on slippery pavements; make turns slowly and smoothly without sudden swerves; when starting on snow or on smooth ice use second gear to gain added traction; avoid sudden stops wherever possible; keep a safe distance behind the car ahead; when applying the brakes use a light pumping action rather than steady pressure on the brake pedal; sig-

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

NOTHING STANDS STILL

The course of events waits upon neither Presidential elections nor Inaugurations. The Russians have again seized the initiative in international relations, stirring up troubles for the United States, almost on the very day that President Eisenhower took office. It is characteristic of their mauldin hatred for their benefactor, the United States, that they are today not only conducting a campaign of violence against us in Europe and Asia, but that they should be teasing the new administration into an immediate declaration of policy.

The Eisenhower administration would have preferred to devote its early months, a period that is often called a honeymoon for a new President, to important domestic problems, to the reorganization and streamlining of the executive branch of the government; to adjustments and amendments to the Taft-Hartley Law; to a study and a correction of the inflationary economy of the Truman administration; to a consideration of the problem of restoration of sound money; to a reanalysis of the immigration law; to a rectification of the relations between the federal government and the states. All these and other matters require considerable legislative action.

These are but a few items on the agenda which need urgent congressional and executive action after 20 years of the New Deal and the Fair Deal. A large number of "emergency" measures, adopted to solve some particular problem in a period of a falling economy, have been continued permanently and have established a creeping socialism that has burdened our people with high and inequitable taxation.

In the present mood of our people, the new administration is expected to approach these problems with a new look and a new answer. Eisenhower's cabinet has been greeted with a marked degree of approval because it introduces a different type of personality into government from what we have witnessed during the past 20 years.

But across it all, like a deepening shadow, is the figure of Stalin, who wants not war but chaos; whose policy it is to keep our government preoccupied with international relations and the preparation for war. The permanent Russian policy is the destruction of the United States without a shooting war.

In every country on earth, Stalin is now conducting a violent anti-American campaign which is producing a fear psychology that undoes the constructive work that has been accomplished since the end of World War II. This fear psychology develops a political response in "neutrality" in the desire of peoples in nearly all countries, including our closest allies, to establish international relations that will not require them to choose between the United States and Soviet Russia. Stalin's immediate objective is to leave us without allies or even friends. His ultimate objective is to destroy the American economy.

Thus far, the Russian has been successful in many phases of this program. Neutralism is growing rapidly. At the recent conference of Socialists in Rangoon, at which many important persons were present from countries which we have aided, opinion was favorable for a "third force."

In these days, ambiguous terms are employed by statesmen to fool the people. What do they mean by a "third force"? It is a phrase that has been milling around for a long time and means, in effect, neutrality between the United States and Soviet Russia. But it means something more than that. It means opposition to both capitalism and Socialism, to the American way of life and to the Russian way of life. Americans have to recognize the "third force" concept as anti-American.

This is the picture that President Eisenhower faces and it is not too seemly. It involves him in the maze of international relations which keep our taxes high and our money unstable. It gives him no freedom to reconstruct the federal government, which has fallen into the habit of solving all public questions by Socialistic devices that give the impression of great activity on behalf of the people and end in limiting the opportunities of the people by taxing away their earnings.

The immediate task is to take the initiative away from Stalin. He gained it at Teheran in 1943 and has held it since then. Neither Roosevelt nor Truman nor their secretaries of state found any means to wrest the initiative from the Russian. If Eisenhower and Dulles can do that, they will have strengthened this country beyond anything else they could do.

ARTHROSIS PROBLEM IN INDUSTRY

Most of us as we come in contact with the blind individuals feel a real wave of sympathy for them because we think of what they are missing in his beautiful world.

However, there are other less spectacular ailments which are so common and the patient is able to get around, see and hear perfectly, but in which the patient is in pain much of the time and is unable to do his daily work. I refer particularly to the individual suffering with arthritis, the commonest form of which is rheumatoid arthritis.

In rheumatoid arthritis the disease attacks the joints and the surroundings of the joints—cartilages, ends of joints, ligaments and muscles—causing inflammation of the parts with a loss of tissue and, in some cases, perhaps an increase in the tissue.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. J. M. Beauregard, Montreal, in discussing the problem of arthritis in industry, states that rheumatoid arthritis, "the nefarious crippler chooses 80 per cent of its visitations at the time of onset between the ages of 20 and 50, most productive years of life."

It is a nightmare to all industrial physicians and to general practitioners everywhere. Fortunately, for employees, it is now generally accepted that trauma (injuries) is one cause of arthritis as often a simple injury to a joint will be the starting point of arthritis. "This is particularly true of the knee joint where arthritis is hastened by over-weight, overuse and the continued presence of loose bodies (cartilages). Similar ailments in the shoulder and elbow are often found in professional baseball players.

Weight by itself normally affects the compressible parts of a joint such as the knee to the point where the body is balanced on one leg, the pressure being equal to 12 times the blood pressure. We can readily understand that the joint and its surroundings will suffer a lot of wear and tear during a lifetime. Certain occupations such as policeman and soldier bring on arthritis sooner.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. P. S. Hench and C. M. Darnall, state rheumatoid arthritis forms about 25 per cent (more than three in every ten) of the arthritis cases at the Mayo Clinic. They state further that injury, if not a direct cause, is a "starting" or precipitating cause of arthritis, lowering the natural resistance of the affected joint or tissues.

When the joint is affected, emotional disturbances, such as anxiety about being able to continue work, prolongs the symptoms.

The Shouts Heard 'Round the World

NEW ADMINISTRATION

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — President Dwight D. Eisenhower is getting more unsolicited advice on how to run the country than any U. S. chief executive ever got before. Everybody — except perhaps Ike himself — thinks he knows just exactly what ought to be done.

This indicates that lobbying in the coming administration may be particularly heavy. It has dropped off considerably in the last six months. The new congressional report on registered lobbyists' activities is thinner than usual, with fewer than 700 entries.

The reason is simple. Nobody can get anything out of a dead duck. But here is a fat new goose to be hung on the rack. Some people seem to think the picking is going to be good.

To President Eisenhower this presents a special handicap. He can't satisfy everybody. Anyone whose advice he doesn't follow or ignores is likely to be a handicap.

On the other hand, the American Tariff League resolutions declare that "The tariff is universally admitted to be the fairest, most equitable and most liberal method of trade regulation. . . .

The President should formally advise foreign nations that . . .

all U. S. tariff concessions negotiated in trade agreements with other countries are subject to withdrawal or modification. . . .

Three of the most powerful organizations in the U. S.—the American Bar Association, the American Medical Association and the National Association of Manufacturers—are now ready to give their support to a proposed constitutional amendment limiting tax rates to a maximum of 25 per cent of income.

Your Income Tax

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Washington — Many self-employed persons must pay an additional tax on their incomes, for Social Security tax purposes. It is due, along with the regular income tax, by March 15.

This additional tax must be paid by every self-employed person covered by social security if his net earnings from self-employment last year were $400 or more. There's no choice about it; if you come within that category, you owe it.

However, several large groups of persons are excluded from social security coverage. These include farmers, railroad workers, public officials, lawyers, doctors, dentists, osteopaths, chiropractors, professional engineers, clergymen and public accountants.

This special tax for self-employed persons is 2 1/4 per cent of net earnings from self-employment. The maximum amount that can be taxed is $3,600 a year, which means a top tax of $88.

When Income Is Split

What if part of your income was from self-employment and part from a job covered by social security from which the old age and survivors insurance tax is withheld?

As an example, a man might have had $2,000 income from a covered job and $3,000 from self-employment. The social security tax already would have been withheld from his $2,000. Since the maximum amount subject to tax is $3,600, he would owe an additional $36 (2 1/4 per cent of $1,600). If you made $3,600 or more in covered employment, you don't have to pay this special tax on any balance of your income brought in by self-employment, no matter how large. Remember, the maximum amount subject to tax is $3,600.

Self-employment income represents money received for services rendered rather than from investments. Accordingly, you don't pay the special tax on dividends, interest on investments or capital gains.

The self-employment tax became effective in 1951 and you should have your social security number by now. If not, you can obtain one from any of the 500 Social Security Administration field offices.

Return Must Show Number

This number should be written in on page 1 of form 1040. That form, together with a separate schedule C, is the proper one on which to report self-employment income and figure the tax.

Self-employed persons, of course, must file income tax returns like everybody else.

Even if you have to file a declaration of estimated income tax, no estimate is required for the self-employment tax.

One final word. In 1953, jolt down various potential deductible expenses, such as doctor bills and taxes, as they are paid. Save receipts and cancelled checks. This will be of immense help if you decide to itemize your deductions next year.

The annual report presented by Mrs. Harry Halverson, secretary, follows:

Official Report

We have had nine meetings during the year with an average attendance of 14. We have seven single applications.

Donation Day was held at the Home October 23, at which time visitors are always invited and the guests of the Home are also present. This past year on Donation Day a fine program of instrumental music was given by students from the high school under the direction of Mr. Berchin. The guests of the Home especially enjoyed these programs. Refreshments were served from an attractively decorated tea table by Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton and her committee.

The cash receipts amounted to $577 and many articles of food were also received.

Published in Freeman

Each month a list of donations is published and write-ups for Donation Day as well as other items for the benefit of the Home are published in the Kingston Daily Freeman. We are most grateful to the public which the paper gives these articles.

The Ministerial Association as well as the Gideon Society has supplied the Home with services Sundays, which is greatly appreciated by the guests.

Entertainments have been provided by the various churches and other organizations of the city for which the guests are very thankful. Again this past year through the efforts of Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman and her committee, the guests have been taken out each week during the pleasant weather for drives through the country. This is thoroughly enjoyed by the guests.

Our expenses for nursing and hospital care have been very much greater than in the past year.

We have tried to keep our expenditures on furnishings to a minimum.

A visiting committee from the Board has called regularly on the guests, especially those unable to leave the home.

Our Good Cheer Committee has been able to provide many extra niceties during the year for the guests to make their days more pleasant, such as remembering their birthdays.

At Christmas time the Home was beautifully decorated for the holiday season by Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Parks, and a party was held at which gifts were distributed to each guest and Mrs. Clementine Nessel and others, gave a fine musical program.

The Home is most grateful for any entertainment for the guests, especially during the bad weather when it is difficult for them to get out.

Y-Aides
The name "Y-Aides" was adopted by the former Young Employed Girls Club of the YWCA at meeting Tuesday evening. Bylaws for the club were adopted.

Since the members enjoyed so much the informal talk given by Mrs. Peck of the Cerebral Palsy Clinic some time ago, it was decided to include in the program for February one meeting devoted to an informal talk on some topic of interest to all. The 17th of February will be the monthly supper and social evening. All past projects are to be finished up by the second week in February, so that the Y-Aides can take on new projects.

The Y-Aides, like the Young Employed Girls, will meet every Tuesday evening at the YWCA at 7:30 p. m. with the exception of the third Tuesday in the month, which is the monthly supper meeting. All young adults are invited to join the club, whether or not they are employed.

Golden Age Club
The Golden Age Club will have a regular meeting on Monday, Jan. 26, at the YWCA on Clinton avenue at 7:30 p. m. An evening of games will be enjoyed. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Bernadette Bennett, Mrs. H. Boyce and Mrs. Herman Hermance.

At the last meeting the following were elected to serve the club: Mrs. Marshall Winchell, president; Mrs. Daniel Haynes, vice-president; Dwight Smith, secretary; Mrs. Christine DuBois, treasurer. Directors were Miss Louise Merickie, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mr. Pelham, and Mrs. Raymond Craft.

Lucky Children Inherit Wealth Of Rightful Trust in Parents

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

One day last week an official of a large up-state institution for nervous children telephoned me.

He said, "Among your friends, do you know any social worker who has had enough executive experience to direct our agency? For the right man, the salary is $10,000 a year. We have voted this sum because it is a demanding job and calls for a combination of unusual qualities."

I could hardly wait for him to finish to tell him that I indeed knew of such a person, and promised to try to produce my friend for a luncheon meeting the following Thursday.

I hung up—and joyfully dialed the number of my social worker friend with the combination of unusual qualities. He is the father of two little boys.

Waiting for him to answer, I thought, "How good it would be for the children to get out into the country away from the slum orphanage where their father works."

Then my friend was on the phone to be given my message.

After I had delivered it, there was a pause. Not a long one. A pause of about ten seconds.

Then the father with the two little sons to feed, clothe and send one day to universities said, "I can't take it Muriel. The kids here have had three directors come and go within the past 12 months. They don't trust grownups any more. So I can't run out on them. I'm sorry. It was kind of you to think of me."

He is making $5,000 a year.

After I'd hung up, I thought, "This I must tell to as many fathers and mothers as I can reach. Perhaps it will bring some quiet to those of us who are spending strength frenziedly accumulating money for homes in the country, college tuition, new television sets and insurance premiums."

Because no matter how fast we're going, we must surely see that the two little boys who live with their parents in the director's top-floor apartment in the slum orphanage are very rich little boys. Solidly rich, so that no tax can consume nor inflation devalue the wealth they will inherit from their father.

So I have not been saddened by my friend's refusal to improve his outward conditions by selling out the trust of 30 children in his orphanage. On the contrary, I've been joyful all week just thinking about his two little millionaires shouting and running about on their stone playground.

It is expected that additional classes will be made possible this year by scheduling hunt course events on the outside ring, while others are run in the ring. Mrs. Herbert H. Cutler, chairman of prize list committee will meet with her group next week and prepare the initial list of events.

Charles H. Ashley, 287 Pearl Street, program chairman, anticipates an early meeting with his committee.

Trophy donations for stock saddle classes were reported by Mrs. James Dargan of Saugerties, and included the stock saddle equitation by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Van Waggoner, Bearsville; Mrs. Alton Dietz, Hurley; Mrs. Dargan, and the stock championship trophy by Joseph Basch.

Speaking for the building committee, Mr. Herrick said work will begin at the ring just as soon as the weather permits.

Events to be scheduled by the educational trails committee are being held in abeyance until more suitable weather prevails.

Mrs. Frielan Vandebogart and her committee were commended for the "wonderful Christmas party, dinner and entertainment enjoyed by more than 70 members, their families and guests."

A social period followed the meeting and refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

Vet Loses Suit

Mineola, Jan. 24 (P)—A state Supreme Court jury last night decided against a $250,000 damage suit brought against a Sparrowbush hotel by a young army veteran injured in a diving accident.

The jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated about five hours before rendering its decision against Eugene Aarsonson, 24. He claimed, in the suit against the Eddy Farm Hotel, that he was hopelessly crippled when he dived into the hotel pool and struck a rock Aug. 16, 1949. Medical testimony had been presented to the panel purporting to show Aarsonson suffered a fractured neck, fractured skull and internal injuries.

Church Advertisements

Wampsville, N. Y., Jan. 24 (P)—

Readers of the classified section on the Oneida Daily Dispatch got the direct approach yesterday from a church here: "Wanted, men, women and children to sit in slightly used pews; Sunday morning: Wampsville Presbyterian Church."

According to an absurd false of comparatively modern date, the Upas tree of Java destroys all life in a radius of 15 miles because it is so poisonous.

WIFE CORRECT IN WAITING

A reader tells me: "About six months ago we moved into a new neighborhood and a month later I was invited to a luncheon at a neighbor's house where I met several other women. They were all very friendly toward me but I have not seen nor heard of any of them since. I have become quite friendly with the woman who gave the luncheon and I gave a lunch party for her not long ago but did not invite any of these other women. My husband thinks I should have. Isn't it correct for them to invite me to something before inviting me to their house?"

It is not necessary to wait for them to invite you to something before inviting them to your house, but they at least should have made some gesture of welcome toward you. If they had come to see you after the party, then it would have been proper to invite them. But since they did neither you were correct in omitting them.

Announcing Office Visitors

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a receptionist in a large office. When I call one of the men in the office to say there is someone to see him, which is correct: "There is a lady waiting to see you," or "There is a woman waiting to see you?" And, of course, this applies to the words "man" and "gentleman" too.

Answer: Generally, you say, "Mr. Jones to see you" or "Mrs. Smith to see you." But if you don't know the name, you say, "A lady to see you" and under most circumstances, "A gentleman to see you."

Lazy Susan

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just received a very pretty Lazy Susan and should like to know if it would be proper to leave it on the buffet, more or less as a decoration, when not in use?

Y-Aides

The name "Y-Aides" was adopted by the former Young Employed Girls Club of the YWCA at meeting Tuesday evening. By-laws for the club were adopted.

Since the members enjoyed so much the informal talk given by Mrs. Peck of the Cerebral Palsy Clinic some time ago, it was decided to include in the program for February one meeting devoted to an informal talk on some topic of interest to all. The 17th of February will be the monthly supper and social evening. All past projects are to be finished up by the second week in February, so that the Y-Aides can take on new projects.

The Y-Aides, like the Young Employed Girls, will meet every Tuesday evening at the YWCA at 7:30 p. m. with the exception of the third Tuesday in the month, which is the monthly supper meeting. All young adults are invited to join the club, whether or not they are employed.

Golden Age Club

The Golden Age Club will have a regular meeting on Monday, Jan. 26, at the YWCA on Clinton avenue at 7:30 p. m. An evening of games will be enjoyed. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Bernadette Bennett, Mrs. H. Boyle and Mrs. Herman Hermance.

At the last meeting the following were elected to serve the club: Mrs. Marshall Winchell, president; Mrs. Daniel Haynes, vice-president; Dwight Smith, secretary; Mrs. Christine DuBois, treasurer. Directors were Miss Louise Mericle, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mr. Pelham, and Mrs. Raymond Craft.

Billy Loes Rated With Greats in Basketball

Billy Loes, who leads his All Stars against Sherman White's College Bombardiers Thursday, Jan. 29, at the municipal auditorium, is best known for his basketball exploits with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

But the Astoria pitching phenom was a basketball player of All-Metropolitan caliber while attending Bryant High School. Some rate him the best basketball player ever to come out of Bryant.

Because of size and superior talents, the popular young Greek chose professional baseball over pro basketball.

Once in the Brooklyn Dodger farm system (the Dodgers weaned his signature for a $21,000 bonus against spirited bidding) Loes quickly proved his calibre.

Upon his return from the Army, Loes proceeded to win 13 games for the Dodgers, was fourth in ERA in the National League with a low 2.70.

Loes' friend and manager, George Douris, went around and spread the word of Loes' extraordinary baseball and basketball talents.

Fred Dwyer, Villanova, Hailed As King of American Milers

Philadelphia, Jan. 24 (AP) — If you take the word of his coach—a fellow not given to popping off—21-year-old Fred Dwyer is going to be king of the American milers for a long time to come.

"I knew Fred wouldn't make the Olympic team last year," Villanova track coach Jumbo Brown, said today. "But watch him from here on in. I think he'll be the top miler in the country for the next five years."

Dwyer, apparently coming into his own with victories in all three major races in which he has competed this season, turned in a real stunner with a 4:09.7 effort in the Philadelphia Inquirer games last night.

His powerful race shared the spotlight with the new world indoor records by Harrison (Bones) Dillard and Navy Lt. Ken Wiesner. Dillard went over the 50-yard high hurdles in six seconds to shave one-tenth of a second off the mark he shared with Fred Wolcott and Bob Wright. Wiesner reached 6 feet, 9½ inches in the running high jump, eclipsing the standard of 6-9½ set by Ed Burke in 1937.

Dwyer just went to the front at the start of the mile and calmly stayed there while Fred Wilt and Don Gehrmann, America's two top milers of recent vintage, tried with a notable lack of success to make up ground.

Dwyer's effort was a really remarkable one when you consider that the Convention Hall track is 12 laps to the mile instead of 11. That makes it tougher on the runners. The track also is getting old and loses more of its spring every year. Some officials said Dwyer's effort was equal to a 4:07.7 in Madison Square Garden.

Manhattan-Siena Game Set Tonight

Arch rivals Manhattan and Siena will meet for the 10th time tonight before a sellout crowd.

The Jaspers will arrive in Albany with one of their best combines but that doesn't mean a thing in the Siena series. The Indians have been pointing to upset their Metropolitan foes.

Spectator enthusiasm is at a record peak. The contest was sold out hours after the tickets were put on sale. Eddie O'Connor of Newburgh and Junius Kellogg, 6 foot 8 Negro center, are the big Jasper attractions.

YMCA Notes

The regular Saturday night dance will be held this evening at the youth center.

The Van Ingen Club of the MJM School met early this week to make posters for its George Washington party which will be held from 7 to 9 p. m. Monday, Feb. 23. There will be dancing, entertainment, refreshments and a movie. Lewis Levy of 8 St. James Court and Lewis Eaton of 387 Albany avenue joined the club at the meeting.

A trip to West Point is planned for the boy's division during the latter part of February. Boys making the trip will have an opportunity to see the Army-Harvard basketball game, college boxing and an IC4A track meet. Ed Weaver of Kingston, a star athlete at the Point, a former member of the boy's division of the YMCA, is expected to see action on the basketball court.

Those making the trip should bring lunches for a luncheon at the Y before departure for the Point. Cocoa and other refreshments will also be served. The bus will leave for the Academy at 11:30 a. m. and return by 7 p. m. in the evening. Total cost of the trip will be $1.50. Those wishing to make the trip should sign up with the youth director immediately.

Texas Has Fair Weather After Snow and Cold

Amarillo, Tex., Jan. 24 (AP) — Texas weather turned on the charm today after a brief spell of rowdiness.

A snow-bearing norther that closed schools, stranded hundreds of motorists and knocked out power and communication facilities had spent its brief force.

Generally fair weather prevailed over the state today after the last of the snow—a mushy variety—pelted east Texas last night.

The heavily-populated Dallas-Fort Worth area woke up yesterday in a swirling storm of the wet snow. By late afternoon skies were clear and no snow remained.

Telephone and power lines in the Panhandle and south plains had been knocked out and motorists stalled in three-foot deep snowdrifts Thursday night when temperatures dropped to the mid-twenties.

But yesterday even the hardest hit areas were cleaning up in weather of near shirtsleeve temperatures.

Ferraro cracked solos of 234, 211, 213 for the hat trick in the men's Classic. Barrows Motors, meanwhile, set two new team records of 1035 and 3000.

Track
Philadelphia — Harrison Dillard set a new world indoor record of six seconds for the 50-yard high hurdles in the inquirer games. Navy Lt. Ken Wiesner established a new world indoor mark in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 9½ inches. Fred Dwyer, Villanova, won the mile in 4:09.7, defeating Fred Wilt and Don Gehrmann.

General
Chapel Hill, N. C.—Assistant coach George Barclay was named head football coach at North Carolina for three years, succeeding Carl Snavely.

New Orleans—Mel Ott, former New York Giant outfield star and manager, retired from baseball to devote time to private business.

Evanston, Ill.—Australia's Ken McGregor defeated Pancho Segura, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 for his first victory in 13 matches on their pro tennis tour. Fred Sedgman, whipped Jack Kramer, 11-9, 3-6, 6-1, to take a 7-5 lead in their series.

Racing

Miami — Sunny Dale ($14.80) breezed to a seven length victory in the featured Crandon Park Purse at Hialeah Park.

Sid Gordon of the Boston Braves made only one error in 142 games, to lead the National League outfielders in 1952 with a mark of .996.

Generally fair weather prevailed over the state today after the last of the snow—a mushy variety—pelted east Texas last night.

The heavily populated Dallas-Fort Worth area woke up yesterday in a swirling storm of the wet snow. By late afternoon skies were clear and no snow remained.

Telephone and power lines in the Panhandle and south plains had been knocked out and motorists stalled in three-foot deep snowdrifts Thursday night when temperatures dropped to the mid-twenties.

But yesterday even the hardest hit areas were cleaning up in weather of near shirtsleeve temperatures.

Dot Flemings, the Fair street modiste, moved into the Women's Classic League spotlight last night with a hefty 576 series at the Bowldrome, while Fred Ferraro was pacing the male keglers of the city with a 658 blast in the Ferraro Classic.

Mrs. Flemings finished strongly with 218 after 190 and 168 in the same league where Elizabeth Schoonmaker rocked the bowling world with a phenomenal 722 the week before.

Ferraro stacked solos of 234, 211, 213 for the hat trick in the men's Classic. Barrows Motors, meanwhile, set two new team records of 1033 and 3000.

Rose Schatzel was the runner-up with 216-546 and six others crashed the "500" bracket. Ada Markle shot high single of 226 and 518; Elizabeth Bruck powered 517, Elizabeth Schoonmaker 531, Betty Bailey 218-512; Jessie Burnett 215-509 and Charlotte Lapine 508.

Team results: Manhattan Bowling Balls 2, Bruck's Funeral Home 1; Perry's Taxi 2, Alpine 1; R. Meyer Jewelers 216-205-607; Joe Ausonio 216-205-582; Chris Robinson 212-574; Ronnie Marr 224-572; Ralph Garafola 232-571; Bill McElveen 201-561; Ed Dasher 204-552; Lou Barone 204-547; George Schick 545 and Buddy Greenberg 528.

Team results: Barrows Motors 3, Central Hudson 0; Greco Bros. 3, Ballantine 0; Jo-Al's 0, Esso Standard 3; Newcomer Oil 2, Modjeska's 1.

General

Chapel Hill, N. C.—Assistant coach George Barclay was named head football coach at North Carolina for three years, succeeding Carl Snavely.

New Orleans—Mell Ott, former New York Giant outfield star and manager, retired from baseball to devote time to private business.

Evanson, Ill.—Australia's Ken McGregor defeated Pancho Segura, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 for his first victory in 13 matches on their pro tennis tour. Frank Sedgman, whipped Jack Kramer, 11-9, 3-6, 6-1, to take a 7-5 lead in their series.

Racing

Miami—Sunny Dale ($14.80) breezed to a seven length victory in the featured Crandon Park Purse at Hialeah Park.

Sid Gordon of the Boston Braves made only one error in 142 games, to lead the National League outfielders in 1952 with a mark of .996.

Australian Landy Fails To Hit 4-Minute Mile

Perth, Australia, Jan. 24 (AP)—John Landy's heralded try for the world's first four-minute mile failed today.

Running on a grass track for the first time the 22-year-old Aussie was timed in 4:04.2, far below the world mile mark of 4:01.4 set by Sweden's Gunder Haegg in 1945.

A record turnout of 12,000 spectators at the Leederville oval grass track was disappointed in the young Aussie's failure to even approach his own times of 4:02.2 and 4:02.8 during the last month at Melbourne.

Landy outclassed his eight competitors winning by 120 yards.

"I found it extremely hot on the track," he said, "and went for the record in the last lap instead of the third. Had I run the first three laps in three minutes it would have come off."

The race, four times around the Leederville track, was run on a summer day with the humidity at 68 per cent.

Unofficial sectional times had Landy running the first quarter in 58.8 seconds, the half in 2:08.8 and the three-quarters (1.320 yards) in 3:03.5.

Landy was cheered as he took the lead at the start and went farther ahead with every stride.

He was wildly applauded in his dash to the tape and although bathed in sweat, he was not distressed.

Landy, a student of agricultural science, first attracted the attention of the track world on Dec. 13 when he ran his 4:02.1 mile.

This was the third fastest time ever recorded for the distance and was only 7-10ths of a second slower than Haegg's world record.

However, the mark goes into the record books as 4:02.2 since all races above 1,000 meters must be timed in fifths because of the belief that 10-second watches become inaccurate after two minutes.

Landy was cheered as he took the lead at the start and went farther ahead with every stride.

Team results:

Welch's Grocery 2, Vets NCO Assn. 1; Greco Bros. 2, Connally Market 1; Island Dock 2, Spurco Inc. 1; Cott Beverages 2, Spurco's Tavern 1.

Sicker Tops Electrol

Don Sickler's 564, with 182-153-229, was the best-of-night in the Electrol's regular loop, with H. Smith pounding 240 high single and 558. Tony La Rocca knocking

Landy was cheered as he took the lead at the start and went farther ahead with every stride.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Chet Dolson, one of the finest athletes the city has ever produced, leaned over during Lou Schafer's 10th anniversary luncheon at Judes and asked:

"Have you talked to Lou about the new basketball rules?"

The guy said he had and then put his fingers to nose, a la clothespin, to emphasize his reaction to the "1-and-1" foul rule.

"They should stabilize basketball rules some of these days."

Chet continued. "I don't mean set them back to the style of my day (possession ball, nets, set plays, etc.). There should be a happy medium."

"Every other sport seems to have equalized its rules," Chet went on, "and I think that one of the reasons why basketball is in such a tussle is the constant change of the foul interpretation."

The guy on his right nodded in assent.

... Actually Dolson was moving on solid ground. Basketball's incessant search for the perfect foul rule is doing something to the game, the scandals and other factors and you wind up with a pretty dilemma.

Dolson agreed that turning the clock back wasn't the solution. The man is so right. But then how can you account for the basketball fans' reluctance to move from the hearthside. The public's refusal to get excited about 1952-53 basketball has the college booking agents writhing on the horns of a dilemma.

They are becoming audibly disturbed at the alarming slump in attendance.

Less than 100 student tickets were sold at New York University the other day for a game at Madison Square Garden. This, mind you, is a school of 56,000 enrollment! City College of New York, with a student body of 31,000, has averaged 700 a game.

Fordham, winner of 12 of its first 13 games, has been pulling in only between 1000 and 2000 at home. "Folks just aren't coming out for basketball anymore," laments Jack Coffey, the Rams' graduate manager. "Check and you'll discover there's been a decrease in attendance generally."

That man, too, is so right.

What's the answer? There's a medley of opinion regarding the sorry case of malnutrition at many college basketball games. One side argues that the scandals should be held accountable for the diminishing interest in the game, causing it to return to the status of minor sport which it used to occupy.

"In an effort to reduce the volume of betting, they've hid the game away in the woods," they cry.

"The rules makers haven't helped the situation any," remarks another, griping about the new shoot-till-you-win foul rule. Folks are getting tired of rat race basketball.

There are thousands of men like Chet Dolson, steeped in basketball tradition, who are understandably worried about the future of the game. It needs a doctor.

There was another guy Dolson mentioned during the conversation, pointing to Lou Schafer, who was engrossed in a fanning bee with Ed Coughlin and Dr. Herb Derman, who had previously presented Lou with a stunning clock as a memento from the boys of the paddle club and business men's gym class, he remarked:

"He's the greatest of them all," said Chet. "I've been in YMCA work for more than 30 years and I saw a lot of physical directors, but Lou tops them all."

"He gets my vote, too, said the other guy. "The man's vitality is amazing and after 23 years of reporting YMCA activities I have to rate this fellow the Babe Ruth of the crowd."

No empty praise this. Lou Schafer has become a YMCA institution. From a sports editor's standpoint it's sheer delight to work with him. He's reliable, energetic, has a fine sense of public relations. His record speaks for itself.

Good luck to Lou Schafer on his 10th anniversary.

Orders Deportation Notice for Rubinstein

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert Brownell has ordered that a deportation warrant be served on Serge Rubinstein, Russian-born financier believed to be in the metropolitan area.

In Washington yesterday, Rubinstein was denied a Federal Court preliminary injunction which would prohibit the government from deporting him.

Rubinstein was ordered deported last month but an appeals court held up action pending outcome of the injunction move.

Immigration Director Edward J. Shaughnessy said here last night that Rubinstein was thought to be in the New York area but had not yet been taken into custody.

The 43-year-old Rubinstein came to the United States in 1938 on a Portuguese passport and later built up a sizeable fortune.

In 1947 he was tried for draft dodging and sent to prison. His attorneys have argued that he has paid his debt to society and they do not consider draft evasion in World War II to be moral turpitude.

Prison Riot Damage

Rioting convicts' beds and chairs and other furniture lie piled in a heap after inmates of Rockview Branch of Western Penitentiary at Bellefonte, Pa., surrendered their six guard hostages and threw their guns out of the cell windows, surrendering unconditionally.

Ike Talks . . .

mer deputy chief of the Central Intelligence Agency. He served under Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who is retiring as director of that agency to be undersecretary of state.

To Discuss Message

Eisenhower plans to meet Monday morning with GOP congressional leaders to fix a time for that state of the union message he will deliver in person at a joint Senate-House session, probably later next week. The White House said the lawmakers also will discuss the contents of the message at the Monday meeting.

The GOP delegation will include Vice President Nixon; Sens. Taft of Ohio, majority leader of the Senate; Knowland of California, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee; Bridges of New Hampshire, president pro tempore of the Senate; and Reps. Martin of Massachusetts, speaker of the House; Haleck of Indiana, floor leader; and Arends of Illinois, assistant leader.

There was speculation, meanwhile, as to whether the White House would try to cloak the Eisenhower-congressional meeting with as much secrecy as it blanched the President's first formal conference with his cabinet yesterday.

Silent on Program

After the cabinet meeting, members declined to say—even in general terms—what had been discussed. Nixon told reporters there had been a common understanding to maintain silence.

At a news conference later in the day, Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said in reply to a question that he didn't know whether the President had ordered the cabinet officers and others at the conference not to talk to reporters.

Van Fleet Has Heavy Heart Saying Farewell

Seoul, Jan. 24 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who turns over command of the Eighth Army next month to Lt. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, said today he would "with heavy heart" say goodbye to his troops.

He cannot go into at this time, Hogan said.

Others Involved

Hogan added that the shooting naturally would implicate someone else" but he declined to elaborate.

Police cracked the case, Hogan said, after recovering a stolen automobile.

Included in the indictment against the trio are charges of first and second degree assault, violation of the Sullivan (anti-weapons) law, criminally receiving stolen property, and first degree larceny.

Union Official

not indicate what part the officials played in the deals, whether they profited from them or whether they were violating any laws.

However, the commission has said in the past that it is not a prosecuting agency and that it primarily is seeking to expose to public scrutiny waterfront conditions which might require legislative action for correction.

Both he and Noonan, Gleason said, held an interest in several boxes. Gleason said he held an interest alone in Brown's Hotel, Greenwood Lake, N. J. Guests at the hotel, which burned to the ground last week, allegedly included a number of racketeering figures.

Gleason refused to answer many questions on the constitutional ground of possible self-incrimination.

Refuses to Tell

The chief portion of Noonan's testimony was his refusal to confirm or deny earlier testimony by Daniel Gentile, a 46-year-old convict brought from Auburn Prison to testify.

Gentile, who is serving life in a waterfront murder, said the late John (Cockeye) Dunn controlled the pier gambling rackets through an AFL local of which Noonan was president. Dunn died in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair in 1949 in the same murder case for which Gentile was convicted.

Yesterday's hearings concluded with testimony that a vegetable trucking company apparently was shaken down for $50,000 by Dunn and a man identified as Ed McGrath. The scheme allegedly used the same mentioned in previous testimony—the carrying of "phantom" employees on the payroll.

Lawrence Miller, office manager for A. Costa Jr. and Son, said the firm was forced to pay the money between June 8, 1945, and last September by carrying on its payroll three employees who did little or no work. He said on was Gentile and that he did "nothing at all."

Gentile, without giving figures, earlier had told of getting checks from Costa and turning them over to Dunn.

Happy After Rescue

Although she was sobbing moments earlier, ten-year-old Mary Payne happily nestles in the arms of firefighter Martin Quillan as she and four other children are carried to safety after they were caught by a rising tide in a salt marsh at Quincy, Mass. The children lost their way as the tide rose and firemen had to place long ladders over a ditch 15 feet deep to rescue them. Mary is wet to her hips.

Stenographer Gets Fired From UN Job

United Nations, N. Y., Jan. 24 (AP)—The UN has fired a Russian-speaking American woman stenographer on the basis of secret information supplied by the U.S. government.

A UN spokesman disclosed the dismissal of Mrs. Irene Pogorelsky last night in answer to reporters' queries. He would say only that the secret information came from "reliable official sources."

The spokesman said the U.S. government had supplied further facts about Mrs. Pogorelsky after listing her several weeks ago as one of 11 American employees of the world organization who were "Communist or under Communist discipline." The UN had said previously that it did not have enough evidence to take any action.

Mrs. Pogorelsky, who earned $3,800 a year in the Russian language typing pool, was fired effective Jan. 21.

Another Involved

The UN also announced the U.S. State Department had provided further secret information about another American on the list, Abraham Nadel, a Russian language proof reader. Officials said Nadel, who is approaching 60, will be on special paid leave until his retirement May 14. He earns $6,000 a year.

Two of the nine other Americans on the State Department list have resigned. There has been no announced action on the other seven.

So far as known here, the U.S. has supplied the UN with adverse comments on 46 American UN employees. Of these, 36 have had their jobs terminated, two have

Van Fleet Has Heavy Heart Saying Farewell

Seoul, Jan. 24 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who turns over command of the Eighth Army next month to Lt. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, said today he would "with heavy heart" say goodbye to his troops of many free nations.

Retirement of the 60-year-old amiable general from active duty was announced in Washington Friday. Taylor, a fiery, 51-year-old paratrooper, was scheduled to see President Eisenhower in Washington today and leave by plane for Tokyo Monday.

After conferring with Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations commander, Taylor will come to Korea to take command early in February. Van Fleet, whose retirement from the army becomes effective March 31, will leave for the United States — and possibly for a high post in the United Nations.

Losing Valuable Commander

General Clark said in Tokyo today that with Van Fleet's retirement the United States is losing one of its most outstanding officers.

"His military record over the years is one of which any officer might well be proud," the UN commander said in a statement.

"In his current assignment as commanding general, Eighth United States Army, for almost two years he has provided inspiring leadership to the United Nations fighting team in Korea."

Upon hearing of the announcement of his retirement—which had been extended two months—Van Fleet said in a statement:

"It is with great sadness that I say goodbye to the Eighth Army, this country and its people with whom I have worked so closely and with complete cooperation.

Called Great Leader

"I have known Gen. Taylor for many years. He is a great soldier and leader. I am pleased that a man of his quality has been selected to succeed me.

"I have the greatest possible admiration and affection for the Korean people and for my magnificent Eighth Army, attached United Nations units, and the ROK (Republic of Korea) army. I will say goodbye to them with a heavy heart."

Syngman Rhee, 77-year-old president of the republic, commented that Van Fleet's retirement "comes as a disappointment to us," and added that he was speaking for "the entire Korean nation."

"I am sure President Eisenhower, who has the right and speedy settlement of the Korean war in his heart, must have a plan which is better than we know and we will gladly welcome and cooperate with General Taylor."

Wilson Likens Self To 4-F Draftee

"I realize that I am sort of drafted," he told senators, "and it is proper for you gentlemen to make up your minds whether I am 4-F or not. Maybe I have a flat head instead of flat feet, but whatever you decide."

The Senate Armed Services Committee decided he'd do.

The draftee comparison came during Wilson's testimony to the committee on his plans to sell the G. M. stock which led to controversy over his legal qualification to serve as defense secretary.

The committee unanimously recommended to the Senate that he be confirmed.

Reds Have 36 Ways Of Calling Bum

Berlin, Jan. 24 (AP) — The purged Communists have now figured out 36 different ways to call somebody a bum.

Goaded by Moscow's desire for violent purge, the Red word coiners are filling their controlled press with brand new words designed to catch anyone, however innocent, and indict him for "thought crime."

The U. S. High Commission in Berlin, scanning the eastern press for clues of the reason behind the purge, compiled a survey which listed the kinds of "isms" which mean heresy to the Kremlin.

Some are old and well-worn, like "Trotskyism" but others seem to have been pulled out from a mess of pied type. Some defy analysis but any time a Communist boss runs into a tough snag he always summon one of these word monstrosities and build an indictment around it.

List Given

The "thought crimes" so far detected are:

Trotzism, Zionism, cosmopolitanism, objectivism, particularism, bureaucratism, unionism, diversionism, schematism, imperialism, Titoism, pacifism, colonialism, individualism, fascismism, pragmatism, neutralism, relativism, critical realism, militarism, chauvinism, social democratism, opportunism, careerism, egalitarianism, theoreticism, formalism, naturalism, collaborationism, opposition to internal party democracy, bourgeois attitude, lukak, attitude, lack of vigilance, lack of class consciousness and uncritical attitude.

If you're cosmopolitan, it means you see something good in countries other than the Soviet Union. Objectivism, funny enough, is just what it says—trying to be objective. Any Communist official who subjects the doctrine of reasonable criticism is being objective and this will never do.

Other Definitions

To be guilty of neutralism is to be a spectator in party activities, rather than an active participant. Unionism is the "crime" of thinking workers ought to get more money. Pragmatism seems to be exerting a practical outlook without depending on Red theory.

To like a painting, a composition or a statue that Stalin has called bad, is to indulge in formalism, schematism, naturalism or critical realism.

Militarism is, of course, being in favor of arms for other countries besides Russia. Pacifism can be twisted around to fit somebody who thinks Russia ought to disarm.

The list grows daily and the end is not in sight. It may be that some day the word coiners will find themselves in a box for "wordism."

Must Give Answer

Pittsburgh, Jan. 24 (AP) — The Selective Service board at nearby Ambridge must answer a question for Arnold Liberto, 23, of R.D. 1, Freedom, Pa., before it can draft him. Federal District Court Judge Wallace S. Gourley dismissed draft evasion charges against Liberto yesterday.

Liberto received a conscientious objector form from the Selective Service board. It explained he was to agree to non-combat service as prescribed by the President. Liberto sent the form back with a note attached, asking: "First, I would like to know what the President will prescribe."

The board failed to answer the question and Liberto was arrested for draft evasion. Judge Gourley said the board may proceed to induct Liberto into the armed services after it answers his question.

Virus Is Effective After 40 Years in Lost Test Tubes

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 24 (AP) — A virus so deadly that one-tenth-billionth of a drop will kill rats is the center of a fiction-like revelation from the University of Michigan laboratories today.

The virus, whose effect on human beings is unknown, was first discovered in 1909 by Dr. Frederick G. Novy, the university's famed bacteriologist.

The virus, so deadly that it killed a set of experimental rats every 48 to 72 hours, was watched closely for 10 years. In a change of laboratory personnel some time after World War I, the test tubes containing the virus were lost.

The Albany center covers 19 counties from Orange county to the Canadian border. The area has 172 authorized posts. Full-time operation is maintained in 42, and 35 more are manned part-time. The remainder are not operating. The center also supervises spotting in Vermont west of the Green Mountains.

Major Charles F. Barr, chief of the capital filter center, said participation had fluctuated in his area since the program began. He said spotting in the Albany sector was 70 per cent effective last summer.

The Syracuse center covers 21 counties in central New York, plus five in Pennsylvania. The center is responsible for an authorized total of 221 posts, but only 108 are operating. Forty are on a 24-hour schedule. Sixty-eight work part of the time. The other 113 are operated "sometimes," the Center said.

The White Plains filter hub is responsible for operations at 152 posts in 26 counties of southeastern New York and parts of Connecticut and New Jersey.

White Plains has 91 posts in New York state, 47 in northern New Jersey and 14 in western Connecticut.

Capt. I. V. Bibro, commander at White Plains, said ideal operation of each post, however, would require 168 to 200 volunteers apiece.

He said some of the 6,000 volunteers in the area were spotting from 12 to 14 hours weekly.

At Buffalo, Capt. Ramsey suggested that cold weather and a lack of enclosed shelters for the spotters "probably" dampened interest in that area.

His suspicions aroused, Dr. Novy directed experiments that led to the announcement that not only had the virus been found, but, that, contrary to scientific belief, it was still alive.

Though it had lost some of its potency during the third of a century, the virus still killed 75 per cent of the laboratory rats in three to 11 days.

Is Completing Report

Dr. Novy immediately set to work and is now completing a comprehensive report on the micro-organism from laboratory notes originally made over 40 years ago.

When the virus originally was discovered, laboratory assistants were charged every third day with taking blood from a batch of dying rodents and infecting healthy specimens. The routine, which lasted more than 10 years, was thought necessary to keep the virus alive.

The heavy pressure of research and teaching prevented Dr. Novy from freely investigating the specimen. And in the personnel change, the infected rats were allowed to die and the tubes were lost.

Now, with research humoring, university scientists are investigating the possibility that other viruses, thought to die without a living host, may be capable of survival.

Streams Are Low Despite Heavy Rain

Crusty snow remaining on the ground this morning prevented the absorption of an intense rainfall and left large puddles along highways and the streets in the county. Streams were reported still well below flood stage early today.

The Ashokan Reservoir at mid-morning was reported to be approximately seven billion gallons short of its capacity.

Almost Half Inch

A little less than one-half inch of rain (44 one-hundredths of an inch) fell before 8 o'clock this morning in the Ashokan Reservoir area, a gauge reading taken at Brown Station at that time by New York city Department of Water Supply personnel disclosed.

At Schoharie, the reading for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today was .60 inch.

At 8:40 a.m., the gauge reading at Cold Brook on the Esopus Creek was 6.39 feet, which is not considered unusually high.

Water, its runoff impeded by the crusty snow, collected this morning in puddles in many places along area highways and streets, although no dangerous flooding was reported to authorities in the early hours of the morning. Traffic was hampered by fog in several areas early today.
